PROFILE

A highly motivated and detail-oriented Textile Design student pursuing B.Des with a strong academic background . Skilled in fabric development, surface design, and color exploration. Passionate about blending traditional techniques with modern trends to create meaningful and market-ready textile products. Eager to gain hands-on experience and contribute creatively to the textile and fashion industry.

ACADEMIC PROJECTS

Parampara - (semester IV)

Created apparel articles featuring traditional Indian art styles — Madhubani, Pichwai, and Gond — using hand painting techniques on fabric. The project combined cultural research with contemporary design to highlight storytelling through surface design.

Regal Wilderness - (semester VI)

Designed and developed a decorative cushion collection, focusing on surface design, color coordination, and motif placement. Explored fabric selection, printing/embellishment techniques, and finishing to enhance both aesthetics and functionality. Demonstrated understanding of home textile trends and product usability.

Mah-e-Noor (semester VI)

Conceptualized and created a textile scroll, emphasizing storytelling through motif development and composition. Applied principles of layout, color harmony, and design balance to achieve a cohesive visual narrative. Showcased skills in creative concept building and presentation for decorative textile applications.
